D.H.S. Opens New Doors

The always exciting experience of entering school for the first time each new year was even more exciting this year for the students of D.H.S. After three years of planning and construction, the new high school building with its thirteen additional classrooms and modern facilities was completed and ready for use.

The new building which is connected to both Hargrave Hall and the Bosstick Gymnasium, was built to overcome the crowded classroom situation which prevailed at the Washington Street building and to provide the newest possible teaching facilities for Danville.

In addition to the new building several other new features were added to D.H.S. Two classes, Spanish and speech, were added to the curriculum. This year also added a new school superintendent, Merrill D. Vaughan; several new faculty members and many new students.

As the doors to the school and classrooms are opened each day, so are the doors to something new and different. These doors may be opened for fun, knowledge or just curiosity. Regardless of the reason, something is gained from having opened them.

How The New School Was

In 1958, Jeanne Gill, senior, looks over the plans for the new high school building to be connected to the Bosstick Gymnasium. The building will be one of her father's constructions.

In 1957 under the supervision of Claude O. Walls, plans were formulated for the construction of a new high school building which would connect to Hargrave Hall and Bosstick Gymnasium. Blueprints for the proposed building were drawn by D. A. Tislow, architect, and actual construction began in the spring of 1958 with William Gill as contractor. After almost a year of construction, the school was completed and on August 30, 1959, school officials opened the school to the public for a day. Classes in the new high school began September 4, 1959.

The new high school building as construction progressed in the fall of 1958.

Planned, Built and Dedicated

Merrill Vaughan, superintendent of schools, welcomes the guests to the Dedication Ceremony.

Dedication of Danville High School's new building, December 9, 1959, was highlighted by the Gold Key Ceremony.

D. A. Tislow, architect of the building, started the traditional Key Ceremony and presented the key to William Gill, contractor, who presented the key to Howard Conley, president of the school board, who in turn presented the key to Henry Cox, principal of Danville High School. Mr. Cox then presented the key to its final recipient, Darlene Hammond, president of D. H. S. Student Council.

Harry Gilmore, assistant superintendent of public instruction, gave the dedication address. Merrill Vaughan, superintendent of the Danville schools, gave recognition to all who had planned the construction of the building.

Preceding the ceremonies the band gave a brief concert.

Howard Conley, president of the school board, receives the key from William Gill, contractor of the building.

Henry Cox, principal, presents the key to Darlene Hammond, president of the Student Council.

Scenes Depict Typical Day At D.H.S.

A. Hearn tries to get a free coke as A. Clayton, R. Strouse and N. Kraft drink the ones that they bought honestly.

Bonnie Eggers, guidance director, writes a pass for D. Morris, R. Smith, E. Groseclose and A. Keeney.

Ed Etienne relaxes in the men teachers' lounge during his free period.

While making good use of the new ping-pong table, Mr. Henry Cox tries to return Bob Groff's fast serve.

Each Day At D.H.S. Differs

Frequently, pupils rob their piggy banks of their life savings to vote for their favorite candidate for king or queen.

While enjoying the comforts of the women teachers' lounge, J. Fitzsimons, P. Conklin and M. Pritchett discuss the travel ads in a magazine.

Seniors, looking rather "coord" inated for once, show off their senior cords by doing a line dance at noon in the recreation room.

Seniors Facilitate New Conveniences

As seniors, these students are faced with many important decisions. D. Burton, J. Money, B. Howard and S. Barnett try to decide which assignments to do for the next day, remembering their slogan, "Don't do tonight what you can put off until tomorrow in study hall".

The fresh atmosphere at D.H.S. is, in part, due to the new school building, with its well lighted halls and classrooms, ample locker space and remodeled cafeteria and Grid Room.

These new facilities afford the students the privilege of starting new traditions and gives them the advantage of the best possible education.

Summer school was also made possible by these new facilities. For the first time typing, drivers education and advanced shorthand will be offered.

Leading the lunch line, Gene Gentry pays Faye Sharp, head cook, for his lunch during the first lunch period.

Kids And Kapers Add Humor To School Life

What a line! It must be a fish tail!

What will it be Janie? Food or fun?

Howdy, all you clods!

"Oscar" Merritt scores another two points for the "Rebels."

A vicious circle? No, just the sophomore girls!

Morning has finally come and the senior girls decide it's time to go to sleep.

Royal clods take a drink for prosperity.

The Team Cheered As Their

To climax a week of strong competition, Darlene Hammond, football team candidate, was crowned Homecoming Queen. On her court were Sharon Lange, freshman; Dianne Kreighbaum, sophomore; Mary Burnell, junior; and Sue Davisson, senior.

Highlighting this year's homecoming celebration was the coronation of Darlene Hammond, senior, as Homecoming Queen. She reigned over the annual Homecoming Dance in the Bosstick gymnasium.

Other half time activities included the introduction of the 1943 football team and the announcement of the winner of the float competition, the junior class.

Added to this year's festivities was a social hour in the Grid room for the alumni.

Candidate Was Crowned Queen

As tradition prevails Queen Darlene is congratulated by football co-captains, Dave Scott and Bill Bair.

Fired up for a Homecoming victory, the Warriors successfully stop the Univees at the line of scrimmage.

"Sail on to Victory" was the motto of the Junior class float and that they did, winning the float competition. The sailors shown include Pat Leavitt, Judy Evans, Sally Howard and Janice Anderson.

Seniors Formally Welcome Freshmen

Senior class president, B. Bair and freshman class president, B. Poynter, dance after the formal introductions have been completed.

After having been officially welcomed into high school, freshmen dance with the seniors to the music of Herman Koer's Headliners.

Senior, D. Burton introduces freshmen, J. Cummins and M. McGonigal.

"Stardust" was the theme of this year's Freshman Reception, September 26, in the Washington Street Gymnasium.

Carrying out the theme was a huge silver star center piece, surrounded by a navy crepe paper background. Alternate strips of silver and navy crepe paper around the sides also added to the scene.

After the seventy-four freshmen had been formally introduced by the seniors and the welcome and response had been given by the senior and freshman class presidents, couples danced to the music provided by the Headliners Band.

Jane Hufford Crowned Snow Queen

Hi-Y president, Sam Etienne, crowns Jane Hufford, senior class candidate, as DHS Snow Queen. Other candidates include Helen Collins, freshman; Marcia Dollens, sophomore; and Cynthia Hadley, junior.

Couples dance to the music of the Cathedral Dance Band.

Alumni come back as guests of high school girls and enjoy another dance at DHS.

Jane Hufford, senior, reigned as Snow Queen over the annual Christmas Dance, sponsored jointly by the Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi-Y.

A holiday atmosphere was created by the alternate strips of red and white crepe paper with snowflakes hanging throughout the Grid room.

Music for the dance was provided by the Cathedral Dance Band.

Faculty Presents 'Way Out' Pep Session

"Beatnik" teachers catch up on the latest issue of "Mad" and drink their "expresso" while they listen to the real gone beat of Lynn Jones' bongo drums.

To encourage team spirit, the yell-leaders presented several special pep sessions this year. Among them were a "Deaf and Dumb" pep session and a special presentation during the Christmas season.

The faculty presented their annual program before the first game of the sectional tourney. Our "Beat" faculty appeared in everything from beards and sweatshirts to Bermuda shorts and sunglasses. While some of the "more cultured" read poetry, and the rest relaxed on their pads and enjoyed the "way out" beat of the bongos.

To encourage team spirit, reserve cheerleaders, Sandy, Pat, Janice and Cynthia pose as Indians at a pep session.

Max Gibbs recites a "way out" poem to his fellow "Beats."

Our faculty proved to be not only wise, but also witty at this program.

Girls Prove Turnabout Is Fair Play

Candidates for "King of All Young Hearts" and their sponsors were: Jim Money, G.A.A.; Steve Hayes, seniors; J. C. Burnell, freshmen; Bob Brock, juniors; and Bill Kraft, sophomores.

A large red heart surrounded by alternating strips of red, pink and white crepe paper, set the theme, "Young Love," for the Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by the G.A.A.

To climax a week of voting, J. C. Burnell, freshman, was crowned "King of All Young Hearts" by G.A.A. president, Sue Higgins.

Pupils enjoyed the music of the latest hit records as they danced from 8:00 to 11:00.

Other candidates applaud as J. C. Burnell, freshman, is crowned king by G.A.A. president, Sue Higgins.

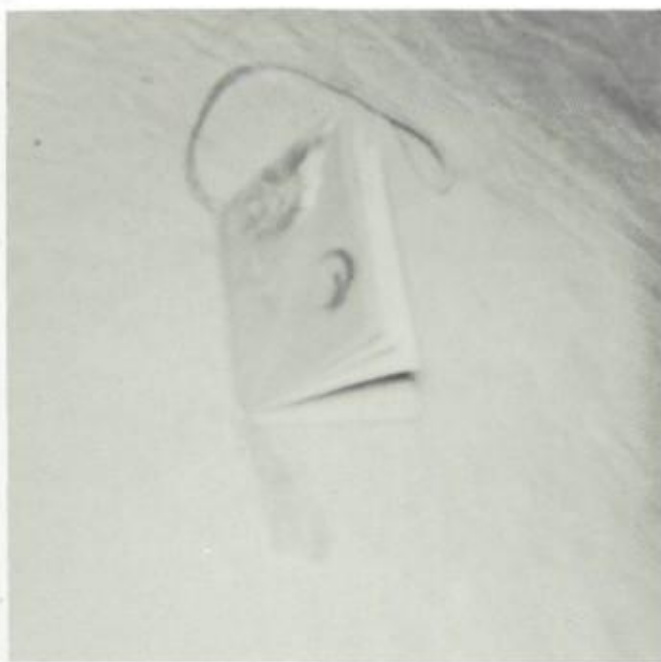

Marian Godeke, phys. ed. instructor, and Janette Fitzsimons, art teacher, dance with their dates.

"Seniorita" Bill Bair shows his humorous interpretation of the song being played.

"Blue Moon" was the theme of the Junior - Senior Reception, March 12, at the Hotel Severin.

Centerpieces of blue and white carnations decorated the tables for the dinner, which consisted of Swiss steak, French-fried potatoes, green beans, fruit cocktail, tossed salad, rolls, sherbet and cookies.

Music for the dance was provided by Herman Koers' "Headliners."

The dance, which is in honor of the seniors, is presented annually by the junior class. All juniors and seniors and their guests are invited to attend, as are faculty members and their guests.

Activities Acquaint Students With Future Life

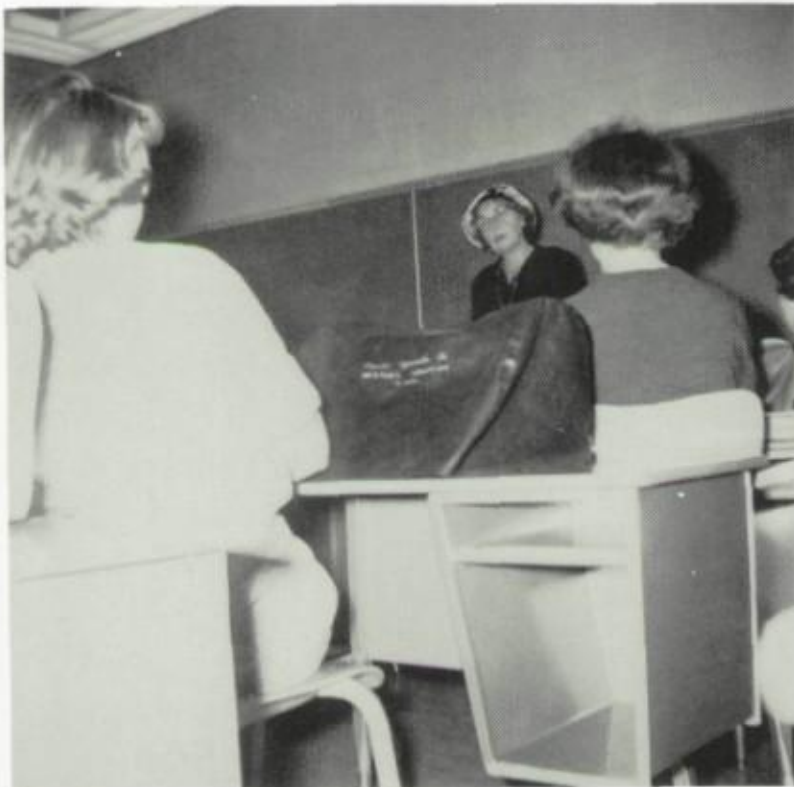

Following the welcome, Henry Cox, principal, introduced the representatives of the various fields. Students then attended the two sessions of their choice.

During April the Student Council sponsored two activities to acquaint students with facets of life that they may soon be entering.

The first of these activities, Career Day, originated at D.H.S. in 1959. Since the first program proved successful, the Student Council sponsors this activity annually. The purpose of Career Day is to further the students' interests in the vocations which they are considering entering.

The second program sponsored by the Student Council was the Seventh Grade Orientation. This program was designed to acquaint the seventh graders with the new school building and with the courses offered.

After a general session the seventh graders were divided into groups, and council members took them on tours of the building.

Mrs. Schuyler Mowrer explains the various phases of social work to interested students.

Each seventh grader was given a current issue of the Pow Wow after touring the Pow Wow room.

Girls Model Own Creations

Senior, Mitzi Martin, escorted by Bill Bair, models the cocktail dress that she made for the Junior-Senior Reception.

Annually the home economics department presents a style show. This year's show, May 20, was the first one in the Bosstick Gymnasium.

Girls participating in the show included eighth grade, freshman, junior and senior girls enrolled in home economics.

Jane Hufford, senior, narrator of the show, sat under a large beach umbrella, which helped carry out the summer time theme.

An added feature this year was the members of the adult home economics class, who modeled their outfits.

Both groups were taught by Margaret Searce.

As a double feature, Sharon and Karon Lange, freshman twins, model their identical cotton dresses.

Louise Cummins, eighth grader, models her basic cotton skirt and blouse.

D. H. S. Students Sign Petitions

Verletta Jackson, senior, hands petitions to Steve Watson, junior and Diana Gross, freshman.

Pupils of D.H.S. wishing to run for a class office must receive petitions from senior Student Council members, fill them out and have ten classmates sign them.

To become eligible to vote in the class elections, all students must have their fines and class dues paid.

Before casting their ballots, the pupils were required to sign the ballot book. The use of the voting machine was explained to them, followed by the voting, as in the national election.

Each class elected a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. Also elected from each class were the Student Council representatives.

Eighth graders, Don Ritchie, David Vaughan, Suzanne Rutledge, Sally Sutherlin and Teresa Wynn, sign the petition blanks enabling them to run for class offices.

To Elect Class Officers

Paulette Gill, eighth grader, leaves the voting machine after voting for the officers of her choice.

Larry Myers, senior, demonstrates the operation of the voting machines.

James Groseclose, eighth grader, signs his name to the ballot book as Verletta Jackson and Larry Myers, seniors, assist.

D.H.S. Choruses Present "Smoky Mountain"

Grampa hits a note "higher 'n one of them there flatlander silos".

"It's either a weddin' to Arrabella or buckshot in britches", Andy tells Ben.

Under the direction of Jack Petermann, the choruses presented the light operetta, "Smoky Mountain". Leads were played by Jack Clay, Pat Leavitt, Craig Widener, Norman Dininger, Bob Lawson, Mary Ann Worrell and Karen Decker.

Girls prefer older men. Here Grampa proves it.

As a token of their appreciation, the cast of "Smoky Mountain" presented Jack Petermann with a gift.

Students Visit Radio And T. V. Studios

Twenty members of the speech class accompanied by Mabel Pritchett, speech teacher, visited the WIW - I and WFBM radio and television studios on the annual speech trip April 27. The speech students watched the George Williford Show being televised and toured the studios.

After the tour of the studios was completed, the speech class was guest on the Jim Shelton Pick-A-Pocket Show on which Mrs. Pritchett received a prize for correctly answering a question.

After correctly answering a question Mabel Pritchett, speech teacher, receives her prize from Jim Shelton, master of ceremonies of the Pick-A-Pocket Show.

WLW - I radio and television news commentator, Forrest Boyd, relates his European trip to members of the speech class.

Crown bearer, Chuck Etienne, and Flower Girl, Tina Jones, were chosen as the Queen's and Robin Hood's attendants.

Couples dance to the music of Herman Koerr's Band at the last formal dance of the year.

Verletta Jackson And Allen Hearn

A moment that will long be remembered in the life of Verletta Jackson was her coronation as May Queen by Allen Hearn, Robin Hood.

The May Prom, May 7, was the final dance of the year. A deep sea theme was created by varying shades of blue, green and purple crepe paper, which enclosed the dance floor. Silhouettes of deep sea animals were hung on this crepe paper. Queen Verletta's throne was a sea shell, surrounded with "valuable jewels". Herman Koerr's seven piece band provided the music for the occasion.

Girls Honor Mothers At Banquet

To show the girls' appreciation for their mothers, Mitzi Martin, vice-president of the Girls' Club, recites a poem, "Dear Mother", which was written by Geraldene Huffman.

Annually the girls in the Girls' Club honor their mothers by sponsoring the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Following the Welcome by Sammy Barnett, Girls' Club President, and the Mother's Response by Jeannette Kraft, the girls served their mothers. Ralph Wyand, grade school principal, showed slides of his recent trip to Europe.

The officers for the 1959-60 year announced the officers for the next year. The evening was climaxed by a friendship circle which included all the girls and their mothers.

In keeping with the tradition of the Mother-Daughter Banquet, June Barnett, president of the Girls' Club, serves her mother.

After serving their mothers senior girls sit down to enjoy their last Mother-Daughter Banquet as high school students.

Awards Received For Accomplishments

Jack Petermann presents the plaque won by the Girls' Chorus to Henry Cox, principal.

Mr. Cox congratulates Karon Toney as he presents a scholarship from Ball State Teachers College to her. The Commencement address was delivered by Dr. M. O. Ross, President of Butler University.

Merrill D. Vaughan, superintendent, hands Rachel Smith her diploma at Commencement exercises.

Diana Decker and Larry Clark enter the auditorium as the band plays "Crowning Glory."

MANY DOORS ARE OPENED THROUGH ORGANIZATIONS

The space beyond the door to organizations is large and varied. This space is filled with organizations that create or further interests in sportsmanship, language, science, scholarship or government. Almost every student enters this door once, if not more often.

Tom Tom Staff Lives Through Hectic Year

Climaxing months of work and more work was the completion of the 1960 Tom Tom. Classes were frequently interrupted as Max Galloway took the pictures for this yearbook.

When these pictures were returned, the literary staff began their daily work of fitting pictures and writing and losing copy as well as headlines.

Meanwhile, our mercenary advertising and subscription staffs canvassed the town, county and school for the money to finance this product.

The results of this effort on the part of the staff and Geraldene Huffman is the 1960 Tom Tom, which is, we hope, the best ever.

Planning the dummy book are A. Harvey, literary editor; S. Davisson and D. Hammond, co-editors.

Staff Prepares Weekly Paper

Planning the next week's issue are S. Pritchard, news editor; K. Toney, editor; D. Scott, sports editor and N. Kraft, feature editor.

Writing stories, preparing dummies, typing stencils, and putting on headlines are all a part of the weekly ritual for the Pow Wow staff. On Fridays the last paragraph is desperately typed, the last headline is drawn on and the mimeograph machine is started. As the circulation staff distributes the 275 copies, the rest of the staff collects more information for the next week's issue and the whole process starts over.

The club awarded a medal at the end of the year to a student for scientific achievement.

Each year the club sends two student librarians to the Indiana University Workshop during the summer.

Spirit and enthusiasm are contagious, especially when they are spread by the Booster Club and yell leaders. This year, for the first time, a special boys' Booster Club was organized to add male support to the girls' voices.

The Booster Club met weekly during the basketball season to learn new yells and songs.

A special Booster Club, composed of 150 members, was formed for the Wabash Valley and Sectional tourneys.

Girls' Club Creates Friendship

The annual Girls' Club magazine sale for the Curtis Publishing Company started September 19 and lasted two weeks. Penny Terry, sophomore, was high salesman. Her total of $173.63 set a new school record. The club sold $400 over their goal of $2000. The three teams that sold the lowest amount of magazines treated the three winning teams to a wiener roast in the local park.

The proceeds from the magazine sale were used to buy groceries that were distributed at Thanksgiving. The proceeds were also used for the Mother-Daughter Banquet, May 6. A gift of $100 was donated by this club to the Foreign Student Program.

This year during their regular Wednesday afternoon meetings, the girls participated in such sports as badminton, basketball, archery, deck tennis, volleyball and tennis. The girls used both the girls' gymnasium and the park for their activities.

On Monday afternoons the girls competed in bowling at the Lynhurst Bowling Alley in Indianapolis.

This year the Marching Warriors, under the baton direction of Drum Majors, Kay King and Dwayne Mood, placed ninth in the Farmers' Day Parade at the State Fair. The marching band provided much color for all home football and basketball games with their presentations before the games and during the half. This spring the band replaced their twenty-year old uniforms with new dark blue uniforms. These are trimmed with red and grey dickeys for marching. The band presented three public concerts and participated in the district marching and playing contests, receiving a second rating in both.

Reach Uniform Fund Goal

Majorettes, S. Beasley, L. Bowen, M. Franklin and S. Gentry, practice for the half time show they will present at the next home basketball game.

Color guards, K. Chapman, J. Franklin and S. Chapman, stand at attention.

This year Drum Majors, Kay King and

Dwayne Mood, sophomores, led the band.

Stephenson, B. Wilson, D. Thompson, B. Bair, A. Hearn, L. Myers, M. Kittle.

The Robed Choir, under the direction of Jack Petermann, has had many pleasant experiences this year. They sang at the Dedication of the new school, for the Christmas pageant, and on Monument Circle for the Christmas Festivities. They also sang for the World Day of Prayer and Baccalaureate.

In the Spring they participated in the District Music Contest at Mooresville and received a second. Also in the spring all the choral members of the county met at Danville for a huge County Musical Festival.

In April members of all three choruses joined together to put on a hillbilly musical, "Smoky Mountain".

Chorus officers are A. Hearn, President; B. Wilson, Vice-President; D. Berry, Secretary-Treasurer.

ACADEMICS OPEN THE DOOR TO KNOWLEDGE

Through a student's twelve years of schooling, this is the door he most frequently uses. Academics teach a knowledge not only of language, sciences, mathematics and governments, but also of people.

Valences and Theorems Stimulate

Earl Clark, junior, explains a complicated trig problem as Dick Thompson checks it with his slide rule. Sam Etienne, senior, prepares to explain his problem.

As David Livingston completes his problem, Mike Hammond checks his factoring with other algebra class members.

Members of Henry Cox's plane geometry take "time out" from their recitation to construct a figure.

D. H. S. pupils interested in mathematics find an opportunity to take a full four years of math including: elementary algebra, plane geometry, advanced algebra, solid geometry and trigonometry.

Students planning to go on to college are encouraged to take at least two years of mathematics.

Bill Piel, senior, won the regional comprehensive mathematics contest and the right to represent the district in the state contest.

Our 'Gray Matter'

Members of the freshman biology class listen while Max Gibbs, instructor, and Jim Disney explain the anatomy of various invertebrates.

Chemistry students rack their brains to remember the formulas for their six weeks' tests.

Seniors, Bill Bair, Amy Harvey and Bill Piel, study the effects of a lens in producing an image in a physics class experiment.

The new laboratory and its excellent equipment provided an opportunity for more lab work this year for science pupils.

Science activities this year included the Science Club and the annual Science Fair.

Sam Etienne, senior, was selected as one of the 31 finalists in the Indiana Science Talent Search.

This fall the chemistry and physics classes visited Allison's Powerama.

The new equipment enabled the biology classes to dissect everything from grasshoppers to frogs.

Students Learn Usage of Our Language

Engaged in one of their frequent "round table discussions," one of the senior English classes rack their brains to give a suitable answer to one of Mabel Pritchett's questions. Among the subjects explored this year were: What is death?; What makes things funny?; What distinguishes between right and wrong?; What their belief concerning life after death?

Members of the sophomore English class learn the fundamentals of sentence diagramming from Mildred Hoge.

Misplaced modifiers, irregular verbs and prepositions that creep into the end of a sentence are all problems of English pupils. Through the English department, D. H. S. pupils learn the usage of this complex language.

During one semester, the pupils study grammar. The other semester is spent studying literature, either American or English.

Aside from the four years of English offered, a student may take speech or journalism to receive other English credits.

Scribes, Orators, Students Set Forth Ability

Pow Wow staff members, Richard Strouse and Janet Majors, use journalism class time to draw headlines on stencils.

As an assignment each member of the speech class entered the American Legion "I Speak for Democracy" contest and wrote an eight-minute speech on the subject. Jane Hufford, one of the finalists, delivers her speech to the study hall and speech class.

Sixth period study hall students use their time to prepare their assignments for the next day.

Culture Invades Our School

The boys' chorus practices on the selections which they sang in the district contest at Mooresville this spring.

For those students having talent and interest in art, the art department provides ample opportunities to increase their abilities. This year the annual art exhibit was in connection with the Home Economics Dress Revue.

The girls' chorus and the boys' chorus participated in the district music contest at Mooresville this spring. The girls' chorus was awarded a first place and the boys' chorus received a second place.

A mosaic created by the art classes was hung in the lower hall during the week before Easter.

The art class, advised by Janette Fitzsimons, work on two colorful mosaics.

P.E. Keeps Pupils In Shape

Freshman girls listen attentively as Jill Crise explains the structure of a tooth.

Calisthenics are only a small portion of a sophomore girl's physical education program.

George Carroll, freshman, attempts a proper forward roll while other class members await their turn.

Danville High School's physical education department has been greatly improved since the 1958-1959 school year.

Girls' physical education is now conducted in the girls' gymnasium, while the boys use the Bosstick gymnasium for their physical drill.

Because of the adjacency to the park, the physical education classes are able to use the park's facilities for archery, tennis and baseball.

Other sports included in their physical education classes are basketball, tumbling, volleyball, dodgeball and kickball.

After the boys had completed their health training first semester, the girls studied health second semester.

Languages Widen Our Horizons

The Spanish class is composed of students who are interested in Spanish culture and customs. Since the students prepare their lessons outside of school, they spend their class time in speaking the language.

Mildred Hoge supervises her first year Latin class as they conjugate the well-known verb "amo."

The language department varies in styles from the studying of Julius Caesar in Latin class to the studying of present day Mexico in Spanish class.

A student is encouraged to study various languages in order to give him a better understanding of the country in which he is studying.

Although Latin has been taught in Danville for many years, this year is the first year that Spanish has been taught.

Next year Spanish will accompany Latin as the only two language clubs in the high school.

Commerce Is Practical Business

Advanced bookkeeping students, S. Hayes, E. Merritt, D. Lange, R. Smith and C. Smith, work on their corporation practice sets under the supervision of Geraldene Huffman.

By means of modern techniques, Danville students gain practical experience and fundamental knowledge in the business courses.

These courses offered include Typing I and II, shorthand, Bookkeeping I and II and general business.

This year the seniors in bookkeeping, accompanied by Geraldene Huffman, toured Link Belt, Farm Bureau and Central Business College.

This spring Frances Marshall from the Comptometer School of Indianapolis demonstrated the use of the comptometer machine to the bookkeeping classes.

Bonnie Eggers dictates to the beginning shorthand class as they strive to reach their 100-word goal.

Through constant practice in typing class, the foundation is laid for a career in the business field.

History Teaches Past, Present, Future

Juniors in U. S. History class not only learn the past history of our country, but also study current events with the aid of "Time" magazine.

Members of the government class study for one of William Gray's tricky tests.

The world — its past, present and future — is the theme taught by the Social Studies department. The past is taught by the World History and U. S. History classes; the present is studied in government and preparation for the future is given in both the sociology and government classes.

Although only U. S. History and government are required for graduation, most pupils also take World History and sociology for a social studies major.

Pupils Prepared In Useful Skills

Margaret Searce, home economics teacher, shows Linda Hadley, Karon Lange, Suzie Gilbert and Sharon Lange, freshmen, the tote-drawers in which they will keep their material and other essentials during the school year.

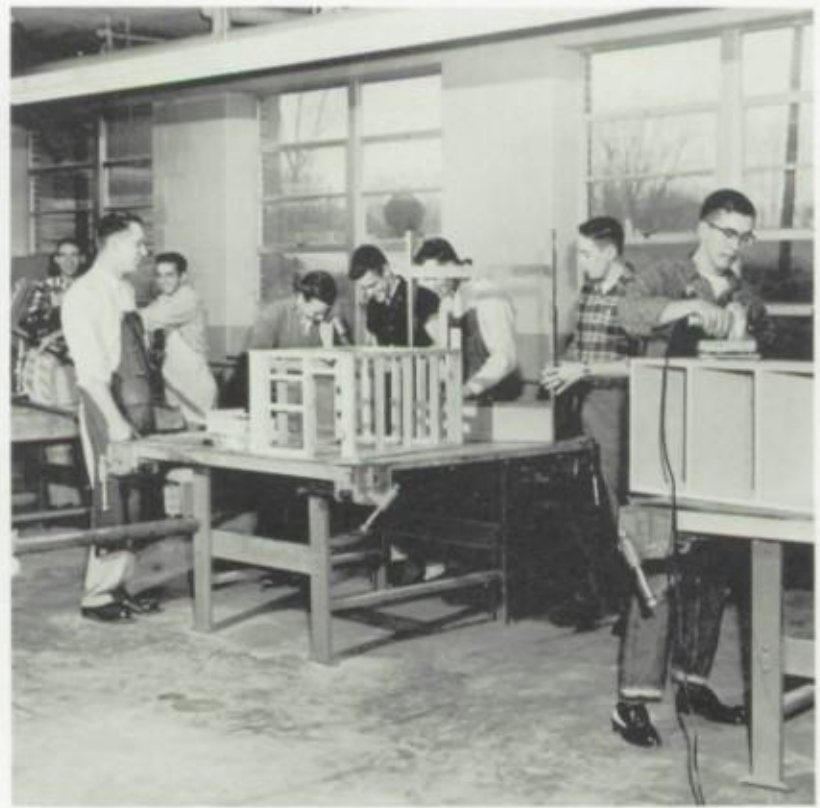

Preparing future business women, homemakers, designers and dieticians is the purpose of the classes of the home economics department.

Mechanical drawing courses are taken by students preparing for careers similar to engineering and drafting. Some subjects studied, are orthographic drawing, pictorial drawing, detail drawing and architectural drawing.

Shop class, presently limited to woodworking, is preparing to include other work next year.

David Jones, industrial arts instructor, approves Doug Burton's drawing.

Juniors work on their shop projects as David Jones, shop teacher, watches.

Honors And Awards Entice Higher Goals

Those students who represented Danville at the 1959 session of Hoosier Girls' and Boys' State were, seated, Bill Bair and Darlene Hammond. Standing: Sue Davisson, Larry Myers and Nancy Kraft.

Student Council President Darlene Hammond presents certificates of scholastic achievement to all students who made the B honor roll four times. Pins were awarded to all students who made the A honor roll at least once of the four times.

To D.H.S. Students And Faculty

Bonnie Eggers, guidance director, was named Teacher of the Year by John Ausman, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Betty Crocker Future Homemaker Award was won by Amy Harvey, while Darlene Hammond was named D.A.R. and American Legion Good Citizen.

Darlene Hammond and Jane Hufford look over their winning speeches. Larry Stephenson also won a speech contest.

Bill Piel, who was a National Merit finalist, and Sam Etienne, who attended the Science Institute, use the knowledge they gained.

ATHLETICS OPEN THE DOOR TO SPORTSMANSHIP

Once through the door of athletics, not only the body is developed but also the mind by the teaching of teamwork, co-operation and sportsmanship. Friendly competition between people and teams is essential for the development of good character.

The Danville eleven gave a full account of themselves through the regular season. They finished sixth in the Mid-State Conference with a won 2 — lost 7 over-all record.

This year's team, in the eyes of all, was aggressive, not only as a machine on the field, but also as cogs that turned the wheels of that machine. Everyone gave all he had, had fun, and turned out a fighting team.

For the first time in many years, the four varsity cheerleaders were seniors.

They practiced at least two hours a week, starting the middle of August, until the end of February.

They also attended the Cheerleader's Conference at Indiana University in the fall.

Mitzi, Verletta, Jane and Dinah Sue have led and organized the boosters of D.H.S. in backing the sportsmen.

Back Team All the Way

Reserve cheerleaders include juniors, Pat Pedigo, Sandy Montgomery, Cynthia Hadley and Janice Anderson.

Freshman cheerleaders are Becky Poynter, Sharon Lange, and Connie Hanson.

PEOPLE OPEN THE DOOR TO FRIENDSHIP

People are the essential factor of school life. Through people many doors are opened, but at D. H. S. the door especially opened is the door to friendship. Because this wide door is always open, it is used quite frequently.

Through Their Teaching

Members of the school board are Hursel Disney, Howard Conley, President; Hugh Weaver, Vice-President; Ralph Walter, Secretary-Treasurer; and Lee Himsel. Also pictured is Merrill Vaughan, Superintendent of Schools.

A graduate of D.H.S., Merrill D. Vaughan is now Superintendent of Danville Center Township Schools. He was formerly the County Superintendent of Schools in Hamilton County. He now serves as a member of the Hendricks' County Reorganization Committee.

The Danville School Board is the group which disperses and coordinates the sums of money which are involved in the task of operating the local schools. The Board also makes the final decisions on construction and expansion programs. The actual Board is composed of five members. The trustee is elected and serves as a duly authorized member of the Board. Two members are appointed by the advisory board and two members are appointed by the town board; each serves for a four-year term.

SENIORS

Graduation, May 27, brought to a close a year of work, worry and wonderment for the 54 seniors.

This year was also full of college applications, scholarship tests and applications, job applications and employment tests.

A more enjoyable part of the year's experiences was the parties and proms, the dates and dances, the athletics and after school activities and the organizations and orientations.

The totally new halls of D.H.S. seemed quite bare to the seniors when they walked through them for the first time last September. With time these same halls, walls and doors began to gain new significance. During the year deeper friendships with classmates were cultivated and unity prevailed.

Royalty reigned throughout the class as seniors were crowned Homecoming Queen, Snow Queen, May Queen and Robin Hood.

Seniors were awarded the D.A.R. and Betty Crocker awards and won three speech contests. Seniors also represented D.H.S.

at the State Comprehensive Math and State English Contests. One member of the class was named a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Testing Program.

Four seniors were selected to attend the Purdue Legislative Assembly and two represented the school at the DePauw Conference.

Seniors also proved themselves in athletics as a member of the football team and a member of the basketball team were named to the mythical Mid-State Conference first team.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Each year of high school brings more friends, more fun and more maturity. Underclassmen found the '59 - '60 year packed full of thrills and excitement. The eighth graders anxiously prepared for their next four years. Freshmen were made welcome at the Freshman Reception and they started on the long path of learning. Sophomores felt a true part of school life after selecting their class rings. Juniors operated the junior candy stand during lunch hour and at ball games to earn money for the Junior-Senior Reception.

The Door to Advertising is made possible through the businessmen who purchase advertisements in the TOM TOM.

This view of Main Street is just a small part of the business district of Danville. Nevertheless, without the splendid co-operation of these business establishments of our community, many activities would have been impossible. Through their backing this publication of the TOM TOM was made possible. We have found it a pleasure to work with such businessmen who offer such assistance and who exhibit a sincere friendship.

We appreciate their patronage.
